

I believe New Jersey's consumer protection act is very important for protecting its citizens from intrusive telemarketers. We live in a society where access to nearly all information is available by computer or phone at a moments notice. If I want a service or a product I know where I can find it. I do not need to be contacted at home by a telemarketer.